THE ARTIST

Scott G, who records under the name The G-Man, began as a maker of experimental films (he has had his work screened at Cannes and the San Francisco International Film Festival.) He has two books published under the pen name of Gerald Laurence and has been a music writer for the Immedia Wire Service since 1991. He has two albums on Delvian Records, with another album scheduled for release later in 2004. His music is played in clubs and on college radio stations around the globe. Creator of a new genre of beat-oriented music called Grin Groove, songs by The G-Man have been called "Moby meets Bowie" (by producer Pete Anderson), "Moby meets Devo" (by tv producer Paul Rich), and "The rhythm of machines with melodies of the heart" (by music writer Janis Amy.)

THE LABEL

DELVIAN RECORDS has proven itself as a champion of quality commercially successful artistry (all titles in BORDERS, BARNES & NOBLE, etc.), most recently with the TOP 5 ALBUM DEBUT by LAURA SULLIVAN and another TOP-40 album for MORTAL LOOM, ADDICTED TO THE TRAGEDY. With national retail distribution and being one of the first independent labels to be invited by APPLE to be a member of the iTunes MUSIC STORE, Delvian is changing the way music is introduced to the public.
